eduBox™ - Education in a Box

Equalearning's unique "online to offline" software technology can put all the educational resources in the cloud on a projector in your pocket. We call it eduBoxTM. It can connect to the Internet to get the latest information in real time, and it can also let teachers get the latest feedback from students. Most importantly, it comes with a battery that can be operated offline, with online quality, bringing education to impossible locations.

Patent technology – Uninterrupted learning

Unlike some projectors that can only play multimedia content, eduBox™:

- plays complete educational content (multimedia content and assessment)

- also encrypts the content so that it cannot be copied.

- automatically get the latest updates from the cloud or SD card

eduBox™ can serve as an independent educational unit.

Not only can it overcome the limitations of the Internet and connect rich educational resources, but more importantly, it can provide complete educational courses to help regions or people lacking educational resources.
